1. retrospect

the end of the year 2011 also concludes a successful year of exhibitions with a diverse and varied program for the artdepot. with a focus on the promotion of predominantly tyrolean artists, the center of communications for art and culture enables contemporary artists to realize any of their concepts, ideas, and modes of expression and, as such a communications hub, offers experimental space for art. this was also successfully put into practice this year, and the artdepot's retrospect covers highlights such as the exhibition "hybridity" by biennale-artist aron demetz as well as exciting exhibitions by renowned tyrolean artists like alois schild, peter blaas, or renate egger. the summer festival 2011 and the movie night "s raphine" contributed to the celebration of the artdepot's third birthday.

apart from core gallery functions and the organization of exhibitions, the year 2011 was also successful as far as art rental, the organization and carrying out of musical and theatrical events as well as the production of videos was concerned and saw an expansion of these areas. together with new cooperations and partnerships we launch into the new art year 2012.

4. briefly taking stock

apart from a record attendance at the long night of museums or the exhibition of peter blaas, respectively, the highlights of the year 2011 included the comprehensive program of our premiere days with its reading collage by maria peters and our “künstlergespräch” featuring art historian susanne barta. due to a unique cooperation with the juff, the department of immigration, the city of innsbruck and the county of tyrol, the artdepot was able to present the traveling exhibition “vielfalt daheim in tirol.” a varied program featuring integration talks, workshops, and daily tours was presented to the interested public.

the year 2011 also saw the creation and successful implementation of the series “der künstler kocht,” which was created as an event for collectors, journalists, and close friends of the gallery. in addition, we were able to conduct a “künstlergespräch” (conversation with the artist) for nearly every exhibition.

we are delighted to announce as our prospect of the year 2012 that we were able to win the international artist nika kupyrova (ukraine) and her exhibition “head hunter.” the artists hannes langeder & patrik baumüller as well as aron demetz and michael ziegler are also going to exhibit their works at the artdepot. one of the highlights of 2012 is going to be an exhibition in cooperation with the kunstraum on the topic of the “alpenrepublik,” which will feature the most diverse media such as paintings, drawings, sculptures, photographs, videos, performances and space installations.
